Warnings:

This appliance is designed to be built into a housing unit.

- ◆ The installation class is type 3 for gas and type Y for electric parts.
- ◆ Housing units must be designed to withstand temperatures of up to 90°C or over.
- ◆ For correct installation, refer to the relevant paragraph and reference drawings.
- ◆ The use of a gas cooking appliance produces heat and humidity in the room in which it is installed. Ensure the kitchen is well ventilated: keep natural ventilation openings open, or install a mechanical ventilation device (extractor hood with exhaust duct). In the case of intensive or prolonged use of the appliance it may be necessary to provide additional ventilation, for example, by opening a window, or more efficient ventilation, for example by increasing the hood speed.

This handbook is valid for several types of cooktop. Refer to the data plate on the back in order to identify the model that corresponds to your appliance. These initials, together with the instructions in the following paragraphs and the illustrations at the back of the manual (Fig 1) will show the particular composition of your appliance.

1. Semirapid right burner (SR)
2. Semirapid left burner (SR)
3. Rapid burner (R)

Gas burners

The delivery of gas to the burners is controlled by the knobs shown in fig. 4 that in turn control the taps. The symbols, depending on the various versions, may be printed on the knobs or on the control panel. By moving the indicator to coincide with the printed symbols, the following adjustments can be made:

-  Tap closed, no gas delivery
-  Maximum capacity, maximum gas delivery
-  Minimum capacity, minimum gas delivery

Burner ignition

- Burners without safety valve

To light burners without electric ignition, or to light those with ignition during a power cut, place a naked flame next to the top of the burner, press the corresponding knob down and turn anti-clockwise until the symbol " " coincides with the reference mark on the control panel.

For minimum gas delivery, turn the knob until the indicator points to the small flame.

The setting must always be positioned between the maximum and minimum, and never between the maximum setting and the off position.

To switch the burner off, turn the knob clockwise to the position "tap closed"

- Burners with electric ignition

❖ Models with ignition switch

To light one of the burners, press the ignition switch and turn the corresponding knob to the maximum delivery position (symbol " "). Hold the switch down until the burner lights, then adjust the flame by turning the knob to obtain the desired intensity.

❖ Models with ignition incorporated in the control knobs

These models are identified by the symbol % next to the symbol " " (Maximum delivery).

To light one of the burners, press the knob down and turn it to the maximum delivery position, holding down until the burner lights. Next adjust the flame by turning the knob to obtain the desired intensity.

Note:

If the particular nature of the local gas supply makes it difficult to ignite the burners with the knob turned to the maximum setting, repeat the operation without a pan in position and with the knob turned to the minimum setting.

- Burners with safety valves

Some models are equipped with safety valves which automatically shut off the gas delivery in the event the burner should, for any reason, go out.

To relight the burner, turn the knob to position 1 and repeat the ignition procedure explained in the following paragraphs.

❖ Using the burners

For models fitted with ignition incorporated in the knobs, turn the gas tap knob to the maximum delivery position, then press and hold down for about 4+5 seconds. Release the knob and adjust the flame by turning the knob to the desired intensity.

For models fitted with ignition switch, turn the gas tap knob to the maximum delivery position, then press the ignition switch and the knob, holding down for about 4+5 seconds. Then release the knob and adjust the flame by turning the knob to the desired intensity.

☞ 'Warning':

The ignition device must not be used for more than 15 seconds.

If after this length of time the burner does not light, or if it goes out again accidentally, wait 1 minute before trying to ignite the burner again.

Choosing the right burner

The symbols stamped on the control panel (fig. 4) next to the knobs indicate which knob corresponds to which burner. To choose the most suitable burner, take into account the diameter of the pan as well as the pan capacity (see table).

The diameter of the pan must be proportionate to the burner power in order to ensure high yield.

Pan diameter
Burner	Minimum diameter	Maximum diameter
Auxiliary	60 mm (with reducer)	140 mm
Semirapid	160 mm	200 mm
Rapid	200 mm	240 mm

ADJUSTMENT TO DIFFERENT TYPES OF GAS

If a different type of gas from the one indicated on the rating plate is used, the injectors must be replaced.

If spare injectors are not supplied with the appliance, they are available from the After-sales service.

For the choice of replacement injectors, refer to the injectors table.

The injectors are identified by their diameter, which is expressed in hundredths of mm, stamped on the body of the injector itself.

Replacing the injectors

- ❖ Remove the grids and burner caps from the cooktop
- ❖ Using a socket wrench, replace the injectors "J" (fig. 11) with the suitable ones for the gas used.
- ❖ Replace the burners (see fig. 13)

The burners do not require primary air adjustment.

Adjustment of minimum setting

After replacing the injectors, light the burner and remove the knob. Turn the tap to the minimum setting and insert a screwdriver in the rod: tighten to reduce the flame, loosen to increase the flame. (fig. 11)

For gas G30/G31, tighten the adjustment screw fully

The flame must be small, uniform and regular all around the burner crown.

Finally, check that the flame does not go out by rapidly turning the tap from the maximum setting to the minimum. For burners with a safety device, check that the flame slightly licks the thermocouple. Make sure that the adjustment is correct by leaving the burner alight for a few minutes. If it goes out, increase the minimum setting.

Using the grids

The panstand grids are designed to make the appliance easy and safe to use. Always check the panstand grids are properly positioned before using the appliance. Furthermore, always check the protective rubber feet are all present and correctly positioned.

Grid for small pots or pans (Fig. 3)

This is placed on top of the auxiliary burner grid (the smallest one) when pots or pans of reduced diameter are used, to avoid unbalancing.

INSTALLATION INSTRUCTIONS

Important!

These instructions are intended for qualified technicians.

The appliance must be installed correctly, in compliance with current laws.

Before carrying out any operation on the appliance, it must be disconnected from the electricity supply.

Fitting the appliance in the worktop

The cooktop may be fitted into any worktop, as long as it is heat resistant (minimum temperature of 90°C).

The dimensions of the hole to be made in the worktop and the minimum distances between rear and side walls and those above the appliance are shown in figures 5 and 6.

Bear in mind that:

☞ If the cooktop is installed without an oven below it, a separator panel must be placed between the bottom of the cooktop and the housing below it, at a minimum distance of 10 mm.

If the cooktop is installed over an oven, place a separator panel at a minimum distance of 15 mm and follow the oven manufacturer's instructions, ensuring nonetheless sufficient aeration as specified in fig. 7.

In any event, the electrical connection of the two appliances must be carried out separately, both for electrical purposes and to facilitate removal.

It is advisable to use an oven equipped with an internal forced cooling system.

Fixing the cooktop

To fix the cooktop in the housing, proceed as follows:

☞ Position the special gasket supplied along the outer perimeter of the worktop, following the diagram shown in fig. 5, so that the ends of the gasket meet exactly without overlapping.

☞ Position the cooktop into the worktop, taking care to ensure it is placed exactly in the centre.

☞ Fix the cooktop to the worktop using the special brackets supplied (A), as shown in fig. 8. Correct installation of the sealing gasket (C) ensures complete protection against infiltration of liquids.

☞ The brackets must be fixed in the holes mark to you from the fig. 8

Installation area and removal of combustion fumes

☞ The appliance must be installed and operated in suitable areas, and in compliance with current laws.

The installation technician must observe current laws governing ventilation and removal of combustion fumes.

The air required for combustion is 2m³/h per kW of power (gas) installed.

Installation area

In the room where the gas appliance is installed, there must be a sufficient natural air supply to allow the gas to burn correctly.

The natural flow of air must take place through an opening made on an outside wall of the room and having a working section of at least 100 cm² (A). In the case of appliances without safety valves, this opening must have a minimum working section of 200 cm² (fig. 10).

This opening must be made in such a way that it cannot be obstructed from inside or outside. It should be positioned near floor level, preferably on the side opposite the fume exhaust devices.

If it is not possible to make the necessary openings, the air can be supplied from an adjacent, suitably ventilated room, as long as this room is not a bedroom, a dangerous area or a low-pressure area.

Removal of combustion fumes

Combustion fumes produced by gas appliances must be removed by means of a hood connected directly either to an exhaust duct or to the outside (fig. 10).

If a hood cannot be installed, an electric extractor fan must be fitted to the outside wall or the window. This electric extractor fan must have a sufficient capacity to guarantee a change of air of the kitchen of at least 3-5 times its volume.

Components shown in fig. 10

A: Opening for air supply

C: Hood for exhaust removal of combustion fumes

E: Electric extractor fan for removal of combustion fumes

Connection to gas supply

☞ Before installation, make sure the type and pressure of the local gas supply are compatible with the cooktop settings. To do this, check the data on the appliance data plate on the cooktop as well as on this handbook.

The gas connection must be carried out by a qualified technician in compliance with local current regulations.

If using metal hoses, ensure these do not come into contact with any movable parts and are at no point crushed.

Carry out the connection in such a way as does not cause any stress whatsoever on the appliance.

The gas supply connector is threaded G1/2". (fig. 14)

For ISO R7 connections, the gasket is not required.

For ISO R228 connections, the washer supplied must be fitted.

☞ After connection operations, check for leaks using a soapy solution.

Electrical connection

Before connecting the appliance to the electricity supply, check that the voltage corresponds to that on the data plate and that the power supply cable is suitable for the appliance load also stated on the data plate.

If the appliance is connected directly to the mains, fit an all-pole disconnect switch with minimum contact gap of 3 mm, adequate for the appliance load and complying to regulations.

- ☞ Do not use reducers, adapters or switches for connection to the mains, since these could overheat and cause burns.
- ☞ Regulations require that the appliance is earthed. The manufacturer declines all liability resulting from failure to observe this regulation. (fig.12)

If the power cable must be replaced, use a cable having identical characteristics to the original supplied by the manufacturer, suitable for the load and temperature (type T90°C). This is available from After-sales service. Furthermore, the end of the power cable to be connected to the appliance must have the Yellow-Green earth conductor 20 mm longer than the other conductors. Refer to the table below for the size of the power cable

Type of cooktop	Size
Only gas burners	3X0.50 mm ² H05 V2V2-F

CLEANING

To maintain the cooktop in optimum condition, clean it regularly after each use, allowing it to cool before cleaning.

Never remove the knobs from their seats

Enamelled parts

All enamelled parts should be cleaned with a sponge and soapy water or specific detergents. Never use abrasive cleaning products. Dry thoroughly after cleaning.

Stainless steel top

The stainless steel top should be cleaned with a damp cloth and proprietary detergents commercially available.

After rinsing, dry preferably with a chamois leather.

Grids

The enamelled panstand grids of the cooktop are dishwasher safe.

Stainless steel panstand grids may take on a bluish tinge on parts around the burners as a result of the high temperatures. This effect can be reduced by using commercially available steel wool pads.

Burners

The burners, comprising two parts, can be removed and cleaned using suitable detergents. After cleaning, dry the burners thoroughly and reposition them carefully in their seats.

In models with electric ignition, always check that the electrode "E" (fig. 13) is clean.

In models with safety device, clean the probe "T" (fig. 13) in order to allow regular operation of the safety valve. Both the electrode and probe must be cleaned with care.

Upon completion of cleaning, replace the burners accurately in their seats.(see fig.13)

To prevent damaging the electric ignition, avoid using it when the burners are not in place.

MAINTENANCE

The appliances do not require any particular maintenance, nonetheless it is advisable to have them checked at least once every two years.

If the knobs become difficult to turn, or if there is a smell of gas, shut the gas supply tap and call After-sales service.

Faulty taps must be replaced along with their gasket.

AFTER-SALES SERVICE

Before calling in the After-Sales Service

If the hob fails to operate, we advise you to:

- Check that the plug is correctly inserted into the power socket.
- Check that the flow of gas is normal

If you are unable to find the cause of the problem; switch the appliance off, do not tamper with it and call in the After-Sales Service.
